

In 1986 Bjørn Hansen's company became the first in the world to represent China and the Chinese oil & gas industry, at the ONS (Offshore Northern Sea) petroleum trade fair in Stavanger. It returned again in 1990.

Founder Bjørn Hansen was the first man to represent China's oil & gas industry in Bahrain, in November 1991. This culminated in a historic agreement between China and the the Arab countries, signed in Beijing in February 1992. The trade agreement gained momentum in 1993, expanding to involve 15 nations and 1,000 trade divisions, plus direct trade agreements between China and various countries in the region. After this, a key OPEC figure gave Bjørn the nickname "China Hansen", a term which came into usage in Norway. The company is engaged in various construction, installation and oil & gas projects in Europe, China and the Middle East.
